

Course Description

Each member of the Church has received a call from God to participate in the Great Commission. To that end, God has put various dreams and visions on the hearts of the faithful to see the kingdom of God manifest in the world. In this quarter, we equip our students first with the faith that God wants to use them and see their kingdom dreams come to pass. He is looking for great saints that want to do great things in the world for him. Flowing from that reality, we will equip our students with practical tools and skills for the ability to both integrate what they've learned with existing parishes and communities as well as the wisdom and knowledge needed to launch to build a new apostolate or ministry. Students will also learn and be inspired by current leaders in the New Evangelization that have come before them as well to propel them to go forth from the school to build the kingdom of God in their spheres of influence.

Course Overview

- Understand the relationship between leadership, authentic 'kingdom dreams', and the call to impact spheres of influence.
- Appropriating Biblical wisdom and applying it to each of the "seven mountains" of influence for the sake of cultural transformation.
- Assessing strengths and errors of "Christendom" and comparing it to the "Missiondom" paradigm of cultural transformation.
- Learning key leadership tools, spiritual principles, and organizational health practices that allow for God-given dreams to thrive in every environment.
